AIRPORT

Prague Airport - Ruzyne – PRG (<http://www.csl.cz/en/frames.htm>)

Prague Airport called Ruzyne is located 17km from the city centre. At arrivals you will find the tourist information desk where you can get any tourist information and help. Friendly staff will assist you. They speak English and German language. We recommend get there free city map. There are also other desks where you can arrange rent a car or book a hotel.

Buses & Taxis

Bus service providers, taxi companies as well as individual cab operators can carry passengers both to and from the Airport. Each cab-driver can load and unload passengers in front of Terminal North building, having to observe traffic signs approved by the Police.

For reasonable loading and unloading periods, the third, newly established lane in front of the Airport can be used free of charge. Buses are allowed twenty-minute free parking spans while the free limit for private cars extends to fifteen minutes. Longer parking is subject to accruing charges (every thirty minutes above the free time limit cost 100 CZK); exemptions are granted to disabled passengers, applying also to extraordinary situations.

How to Park Your Car:

- When entering the third lane, drivers are requested to collect their parking voucher from the dispensing machine located on the left-hand side of the short-term parking area gate.
- When leaving the area, drivers are requested to insert their voucher into the machine.
- Should the free limit be exceeded, drivers are requested to pay 100 CZK for every additional half hour.

The Parking C Lot is designated for longer-term Parking C.

Airport Express

Passengers traveling on SC Pendolino trains holding Czech Rail and CSA tickets can take advantage of bus connections between Praha-Holesovice railway station and Praha-Ruzyně Airport. The low-floor Airport Express buses provide a regular thirty-minute interval shuttle service in both directions, thus considerably facilitating the transfer between rail and air transport in Prague.

The Airport Express bus stop at Praha-Holesovice railway station is located at the Prague City Transit Bus Terminal and is clearly marked Airport Express (acronym = "AE"). Access routes to the bus stop are properly signposted. At Praha-Ruzyně Airport, look for Airport Express at the bus stop shared with other buses of the Integrated Public Transport System.

Airport Express Fares

The SC Pendolino Price List shall be applicable when buying tickets to the newly established Praha letiště (Prague Airport - (NAD) station. Passengers wishing to take advantage of the Airport Express bus service from Praha-Holešovice railway station are kindly requested to state their wish when they are buying their railway tickets. Apart from regular and special SC fares, Airport Express shuttle shall accept all single-directional, first-class Czech Rail tickets as well as tickets subject to Prague Integrated Transport tariffs. CSA Passengers when booking the SC Pendolino Service together with their air tickets, passengers become eligible for a free Airport Express ride. Railway tickets valid on the Airport Express can also be used on Prague Underground, Line C, between Nadraží Holesovice and Hlavní nadraží Metro stations.

City Transport

Prague is easily explored on foot, though there's an efficient public transit system (+420222646055) – comprising bus, tram and underground – most of which has fully recovered from the flood damage caused by last summer's swelling of the Vltava River. Buy tickets at underground stations, newspaper stands or automatic machines: an 8Kc(ticket is valid for 15-minute rides on any form of transport above ground, or for four stops underground. A 12Kc(ticket lasts for 60 minutes during business hours on any transport, and 90 minutes at off-peak times. A three-day pass is 200Kc(, a weekly 250Kc).

Honest taxi services are cheap, but drivers can be audacious cheats - beware those parked at popular sites (city bus 119 runs straight to the Dejvická Metro).
